The Sirote Theatre in the Alys Robinson Stephens Performing Arts Center

OVATION THEATRE UAB

Opening nights at Theatre UAB are OVATION nights. OVATION UAB features refreshments and conversation with the director and designers before the show, as well as a post-performance meet & greet with the cast and crew.

But that's not all. OVATION's mission is to support and sponsor our students working backstage and performing in Theatre UAB productions. Membership dues ranging from $50 - $1500+ help off-set the cost of tuition for each student to participate in the productions.

Join us! Park early, socialize, learn about the show and enjoy hors d'oeuvres, desserts, and light refreshments before an evening of great theatre. OVATION THEATRE UAB is a perfect way to assist our talented students and have lots of fun!

OVATION THEATRE UAB Membership Forms are in our Theatre UAB Season Brochure or contact Program Manager, Mel Christian at 934-3237, cmel@uab.edu or through our website: <https://www.uab.edu/cas/theatre/alumni/give>. We'd love to see you at our next OVATION!

A SPECIAL THANK YOU TO OUR CURRENT OVATION UAB MEMBERS

The Kennedy Center American College Theater Festival, part of the Rubenstein Arts Access Program, is generously funded by David M. Rubenstein.

Special thanks to The Harold and Mimi Steinberg Charitable Trust for supporting the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts' Kennedy Center American College Theater Festival.

Additional support is provided by The Honorable Stuart Bernstein and Wilma E. Bernstein; and the Dr. Gerald and Paula McNichols Foundation.

Kennedy Center education and related artistic programming is made possible through the generosity of the National Committee for the Performing Arts.

This production is entered in the Kennedy Center American College Theater Festival (KCACTF). The aims of this national theater education program are to identify and promote quality in college-level theater production. To this end, each production entered is eligible for a response by a regional KCACTF representative, and selected students and faculty are invited to participate in KCACTF programs involving scholarships, internships, grants and awards for actors, directors, dramaturgs, playwrights, designers, stage managers and critics at both the regional and national levels.

Productions entered on the Participating level are eligible for invitation to the KCACTF regional festival and may also be considered for national awards recognizing outstanding achievement in production, design, direction and performance.

Last year more than 1,500 productions were entered in the KCACTF involving more than 200,000 students nationwide. By entering this production, our theater department is sharing in the KCACTF goals to recognize, reward, and celebrate the exemplary work produced in college and university theaters across the nation.

The Journey of Savage

Collaboration is an essential component of the theatrical process. Savage has been a three-year journey of bringing together a group of artists who committed their talent, time and energy in service of this story. First, and foremost was the partnership with Tommy Newman who wrote the book, lyrics and co-wrote the music with the talented Jaime Lozano whose beautiful spirit informs this piece. Tommy's ability to crystalize a complex story that traverses two continents with multiple locations, explore several important historical figures, and delve into difficult subject matter that resonates in both the past and the present, is nothing short of astonishing. What a joy it has been to spend the last three years of my life pouring over every word, every idea, every possibility with this generous, gifted man. Valerie Accetta has been along for the ride from the beginning. From grant writing, to script consulting, and finally to bringing the show to life through her sensitive, insightful directing, she has helped shape the show in ways too numerous to mention. Roy Lightner's choreography is driven by the desire to enhance the story through innovative, imaginative movement and his contribution has opened up the play in exciting new ways. Carolyn Violi took on the difficult task of translating this new music to the cast and her dedication to bringing Newman and Lozano's innovative music to life has been inspiring. To all of my colleagues in the department of theatre, especially our chair, Kelly Allison whose support of this new work has never wavered, I owe a huge debt of gratitude. The designers, students, staff, technicians, and crew have made what you are about to see possible. I am blessed to work with such an amazing group of people. And finally, to you, the audience for choosing to learn about the beautiful spirit of Ota Benga. He is the man we celebrate tonight. May his difficult journey teach us all the importance of respect, equality and generosity. Thank you all.

This performance of Savage is dedicated to Kavin T. Grant.
His beautiful spirit touched us all.

May he rest in peace.

Notes on this production...

"In 1906, an African man was brought to America, put in a cage, and displayed in the monkey house of the Bronx Zoo."

In Savage, Tommy Newman crafts a poignant reminder and moving tribute to Ota Benga, a name that until recently, had been buried in the annals of history. The musical tells the story of Ota Benga, a Mbuti man living in the Congo, and Samuel Phillips Verner, an American missionary-turned-anthropologist who takes Ota from Africa to put on display during the 1904 St. Louis World's fair. Ota spends the next twelve years fighting to find the home that was ripped away from him as Verner, desperate to achieve renown in the face of a disapproving family and a belittling professional community, ships him from place to demeaning place, including the primate house of the Bronx Zoo.

Ota's story is not easy, but necessary. Savage closely examines America's exploitation and neglect of black men post-Emancipation, and prompts present America to condemn the mirror images of hate that remain today. After all, both the historical figure and fictionalized version of Verner exemplify an amendment to the platitude "History is written by the victors." Ultimately, Verner proves "History is written by the privileged."

Savage thoughtfully juxtaposes the transatlantic cultures as it asks "What Makes A Man?" Unlike the common misperception of early anthropologists like Verner, 'American' might not always correlate to 'Civilized.' Early anthropologists subscribed to Social Darwinism, a pseudotheory arguing that cultures, like species, are subject to the same Natural Selection, which allowed the largely white, educated scientific community to utilize the unbiased hand of science to justify the dehumanization of other races.

A warning is embedded in the pages of tribute in Savage. Ota Benga reminds us all that should we be so foolish as to continue to erase history to preserve a spotless reputation, that history is bound to repeat itself. According to the NAACP, African Americans are incarcerated at more than five times as whites. Though African Americans and Hispanics make up only 32% of the population, in 2015, they comprised 56% of all incarcerated people in America. In Alabama, the discrepancy is equally apparent: according to the 2010 census, African Americans make up 26% of the Alabama population, and 54% of the state's incarcerated population. America continues to put black men and women in cages, both societal and physical.

Savage asks its audience, "What Do We Do Today?" One might argue the only way to achieve real justice and atonement for past and current transgressions is through careful examination and transparency regarding these crimes, as opposed to denial and erasure. Through this powerful production, we step towards that goal by acknowledging, honoring, and celebrating the life of Ota Benga.

Kavin T. Grant (African Dance Consultant) We are deeply saddened by the untimely passing of Kavin T. Grant. A native of Jacksonville, Florida, he received his MFA in Dance with a concentration in Choreography and Performance from Temple University in Philadelphia, PA. Grant was the 2012 recipient of the Rose Vernick Artistic Transformation Award. Mr. Grant trained with Kariam and Company: Traditions, Cedar Lake Contemporary Ballet, Alvin Ailey American Dance Theater, Monsters of Hip-Hop, Florida Community College at Jacksonville and Jacksonville University where he earned a BFA in Dance with departmental honors and a minor in Sociology. He was a guest instructor at West Chester University, Temple University, Penn State University, The University of the Arts, The University of Akron, Rowan University, Muhlenberg College, Jacksonville University, and at various public/private schools and studios in Jacksonville, FL and Philadelphia, PA. Grant was the founder and artistic director for A Rhythm Nation (House of Nations, Inc.) in Jacksonville, Florida, and the founder and CEO of A Kavin Grant Productions and Entertainment, Inc. for the visual and performing arts. Two of his choreographic works were adjudicated and selected for the Gala program at both Northeast and Southeast Regions of the American College Dance Festival. In addition, he was a member of Kariam and Company: Traditions for three years. Grant specialized in classical ballet (Vaganova), contemporary ballet, contemporary modern, hip-hop, jazz, African (Umfundalai), musical theater and step dance. The UAB Department of Theatre dedicates this performance of Savage to Kavin. He approached his work with our students with an open heart and generous spirit.
